EUROCLIO 25th Annual Conference and Professional Training and Development Course

Teaching History Beyond our Horizons
About the Conference

The Mediterranean Sea has often been depicted as the cradle of world civilisations. The sea is known in English and the Romance languages as the sea “between the lands”, but historically the Mediterranean Sea has gone by many names. The Romans have called it Mare Nostrum (Our Sea); in Arabic and Turkish the sea is often referred to as the White Sea (al-Bahr al-Abyad and Akdeniz, respectively); in Hebrew, it is called Yam Gadol (Great Sea), and in German Mittelmeer (Middle Sea). (David Abulafia, The Great Sea: A Human History of the Mediterranean (Penguin Books 2011), p. xxiii.)

Since Antiquity, the Mediterranean Basin has been the centre for the three monotheisms, flourishing civilisations, migrations, the development of cultural, scientific and economic exchanges, but also for the intersections of wars. Today, unfortunately, the Mediterranean Basin is the theatre of a humanitarian crisis that has challenged the collective leadership around the sea.

To understand the current challenges around the Mediterranean, history, heritage, and citizenship education has a key role to play. That is precisely the reason why EUROCLIO and APHG have decided to choose “Mediterranean Dialogues: Teaching History beyond our Horizons” as the theme for its 25th Annual Conference.

Questions addressed are:

How can we make current challenges understandable through the Mediterranean Region’s history?
How can we work towards truly meaningful Mediterranean dialogues?
Can history education allow us to look beyond our European horizons?
And, how can we teach history by looking beyond our horizons?

Many of the current challenges in European and Mediterranean societies are rooted in a paradigm of the “clash of civilisations”. However, contrary to this interpretation of the past, the Mediterranean has also been a space for openness and sharing, and for envisioning a common history and a dialogue of civilisations. The conference takes a closer look at the essential role the Mediterranean has played throughout both the faraway and recent past. In Marseille, the port city which finds itself in the vortex of a humanitarian crisis, “Mediterranean Dialogues” presents an opportunity to open a conversation about European Union border policies and the historical context of (forced) migration.

Guided by three main themes, the conference provides a wide range of activities, including on-site learning, active workshops, key-note speeches and panel discussions, and cultural events.

A common heritage
The conference addresses topics such as cultural exchanges, the emergence of Mediterranean civilisations. Can one speak of a shared, African, Asian, and European past in the Mediterranean? From a European perspective, where does the Mediterranean end, and Europe begin?

War and peace in the Euro-Mediterranean region
The year 2018 marks the centenary of the end of the First World War. The conference addresses the history of conflicts and wars in the Mediterranean, and specifically the First World War. Throughout its history, armies have moved across the region, and borders have changed. The turmoil of the past persists today.

People on the move?
Migration between all sides of the Mediterranean has shaped the region to what it is today; indeed, it has been a crucial part of its history. “Mediterranean Dialogues” explores questions of power in the context of migration, and asks how economic imbalance and European Union border policies affect the Mediterranean as an open, shared space.

SOCIAL INFORMATION
Lonely? Join your colleagues!

With the exception of Monday 23 April, no activities have been programmed after the dinners. We would like, however, to suggest you to use the free time to connect with your colleagues.
The Vieux-Port Area is filled with small pubs and bistros where you can spend your evenings and nights after dinner. However, we would like to suggest the pub ‘The Queen Victoria’, situated in 1 Place aux Huiles, as a meeting point.

During the Conference, we will upload media to @EUROCLIO social media. In case you wish to share pictures or thoughts about the conference online, please use our hashtag.
SPECIAL EXHIBITIONS

«CONNECTIVITE»

The Mediterranean Gallery is getting a new look, and its second section will house a new semi-permanent exhibition. Connectivities tells the story of the great Mediterranean port cities of the 16th and 17th centuries: Istanbul, Algiers, Venice, Genoa, Seville and Lisbon were the strategic sites of power and trade in a Mediterranean that saw the birth of the modern era, between great empires and globalization.

Taking The Mediterranean and the Mediterranean World in the Age of Philip II as its foundation, the exhibition follows in the footsteps of historian Fernand Braudel and approaches this 16th and 17th century Mediterranean region not as an object of study with strict chronological limits, but rather as a character with a lengthy story to tell, even extending into the contemporary period.

Inviting visitors to leap backward in time, this urban history continues today, through changes to contemporary port territories like the megalopolises of Istanbul and Cairo and the metropolises of Marseille and Casablanca. This exhibition shows expanding cities as places where influxes, connections trade and therefore power converge and intensify.

« Or »

Discover the new exhibition « Or » presented at Mucem from Wednesday 25 April 2018 to Monday 10 September 2018.

Combining history and contemporary creations, this exhibition brings together masterpieces testifying to the fascination of Euro-Mediterranean civilizations for gold, fascination which is more than three thousand years old.

Archaeological objects (ingots, funerary masks, ornaments ...), objects from the collections of Mucem (professions related to gold, reliquaries, ritual objects ...), films and documents, as well as works of art, will be displayed. The exhibition will feature, in addition, modern and contemporary art, including Ossip Zadkine, Victor Brauner, Yves Klein, James Lee Byars, Louise Bourgeois, Jean-Michel Othoniel, Johan Creten, Liza Lou.

The dialogue between archaeology, history and contemporary creations will enable us to understand gold in its oneiric imagery, political symbolism, and creative luminosity.

The exhibition will be presented in a free pre-opening on Tuesday 24 April, from 16.00 to 21.00.

9.30  SITE VISIT AND WORKSHOP
      IN TWO GROUPS

Through a rich and compelling collection of displays, audiovisual pieces and illustrations, the museum recounts the complex history of the Camp des Milles and of the men, women and children who experienced it. The tour will focus on history, remembrance and reflection, also through the number and diversity of artworks produced by the interned. explained by the many artists and intellectuals (Max Ernst, Hans Bellmer, Lion Feuchtwanger and others) who channeled their creativity to resist the persecution and dehumanization to which the interned were subjected.

TOULON

8.15  DEPARTURE BY BUS
      From Hotel StayCity
10.30-16.30  MUSEUM AND SITE VISITS
      In two groups.

With its military port, its arsenal and its exceptional natural environment, Toulon was nicknamed by Vauban “the most beautiful bay in Europe” and remains, still today, one of the two main French naval bases. During the excursion “Toulon, the Mediterranean at War”, you will discover the maritime tradition and the military history of the city by visiting the National Navy Museum, the memory of the arsenal of Toulon. After an ascent, by cable car, to the summit of Mont Faron, offering a unique view of the harbour, you will visit the Memorial of the landing and the liberation of Provence which, recently renovated, traces an essential event of the Second World War: the Allied invasion of Southern France on 15 August 1944.

12.30  LUNCH

18.00  RETURN TO MARSEILLE
      Free Evening
EUROCLIO – European Association of History Educators unites more than seventy history teachers’ associations and history education institutes from over forty, mostly European countries, and represents over 25,000 historians and history education professionals. Since 1992, the association has worked with thousands of educators to support innovation and responsibility in history education in Europe and beyond, in ways that allow students to learn how to think critically, have empathy and be curious about the world around them and how it came to be. National member associations in post-conflict areas have worked together to overcome large differences of opinion and transform the subject from a weapon into a tool for living together in peace.

Evens Foundation Presents

Conflict Matters in History Education

The Evens Foundation is a public benefit foundation based in Antwerp (Belgium), but active throughout Europe with additional offices in Paris and Warsaw. We initiate and support projects, and award biennial prizes that contribute to the progress and strengthening of Europe based on cultural and social diversity. In doing so we aim for a European dimension not only in our mission but also our methods. For the past 10 years the foundation has been actively supporting educational projects in the field of conflict transformation. We have also initiated the Conflict Matters conference and platform to explore and share pioneering ideas and good practices that allow to turn conflict into an educational opportunity. History, and by extension history education, very often is a source of conflicting interpretations, not of easy consensus. We believe that opening up a space to engage with the dissonant or even conflictual nature of history is the first step in discovering common positions or acknowledging existing differences. With our support to this event, we want to draw attention to the importance of conflict in history education and take a closer look at initiatives that succeed in engaging with divisive history in a transformative way.

NACE provides spaces for exchange of knowledge and tools in order to advocate for Civic Education in the Arab Region. By inspiring and engaging a variety of stakeholders to participate actively in constant renewals of the social contract, NACE assumes the responsibility to contribute to cohesion and communality on local, national and international levels.
The Decisions and Dilemmas III: Making Learning about the EU Motivating and Meaningful project is a continuation of the previous projects Decisions and Dilemmas I and II. It aims to further support educators across Europe in teaching about the European Union in a motivating and meaningful way that resonates with students. We hope that through this, students will become more aware and active in Europe’s democracy. The ambition of this project is to make educators, and thus students, aware of the importance of the EU and the complexities that accompany policy and decision making in the EU.

The Europeana Digital Service Infrastructure phase 3 (DSI3) project will continue the work of its predecessors DSI1 and DSI2 in tackling the question of “how to unlock the potential for use of digital heritage for (history) education?”. Within this, there will be a focus on web development and the further integration of Europeana and Historiana (www.historiana.eu) in order to make them more user-friendly, thus allowing for their optimal use in history education. The project will aim to develop teaching resources across the two platforms, as well as teacher training guides on the use of these platforms and resources.

The project History Education Beyond Borders: Mapping and Sharing Global Experiences in Developing and Implementing History Education Resources is a means to create a structural conversation among expert-practitioners from Europe and Northeast Asia who seek to develop and successfully implement cross-border history education resources, with a specific eye to the re-conciliatory potential of history education. It is best characterized as a project which brings experienced editors and authors of cross-border history education resources together, challenges them to share their experiences in a structural way, as to identify best practice and document the approaches in a practical way so that they become transferable. As editors or authors of such resources, they are not a neutral group of researchers, but themselves active stakeholders and certainly also can be seen as active civil society.

The Moving History in the Mediterranean project is a continuation of earlier EUROCLIO collaboration in the North Africa and Middle East Region, most notably the Annual Conference of 2012 in Antalya, the Learning about (y)our Past project, conducted with member associations in Cyprus and Lebanon, and various channels of cooperation developed over the last 10 years with non-governmental and inter-governmental stakeholders. This year, the support helps to mobilise to the conference history and citizenship educators, in close cooperation with the Networking Arab Citizenship Education group (NACE).

MÉMOIRES DE LA GUERRE CIVILE D’ESPAGNE, hosted by Olivier RABASSE
Cet atelier aura pour but de présenter comment on peut montrer à des étudiants qu’il y a eu et qu’il demeure largement une mémoire officielle, celle des vainqueurs ; et aussi de montrer comment toute une mémoire occultée tente depuis la fin du XIXe s de reprendre la main, par delà le révisionnisme puis l’amnésie nationale. Nous nous intéresserons d’abord à la mémoire officielle imposée par la dictature de Franco et à sa manipulation de symboles et de lieux de mémoire ; nous aborderons ensuite comment l’Espagne de la Transition démocratique a fait le choix du compromis voire de l’amnésie ; nous présenterons les débats qui traversent la société espagnole depuis la Ley de Memoria de 2007 et sa laborieuse application.

THE HUMAN IMPACT OF WORLD WAR 1: LIVING WITH DISABILITY. HOW TO USE QUALITY SOURCE MATERIALS FOR ONLINE LEARNING ACTIVITIES?, hosted by Steven STEGERS
This workshop will focus on the consequences of WW1 for the people who fought, especially those who were injured. How did they adjust to their new lives and cope with the traumas of the war. Participants will be introduced to sources that provide insight in the jobs that these people did, the changed appearance that resulted from the injuries, and the changes in the position that they had. These sources are handpicked for their educational value from the Europeana Collections. In the second part participants will work together to create online learning activities that make use of these sources and the interactive tools developed by EUROCLIO.

OPENING EUROPE’S BORDERS: HOW DID THE MIGRANT CRISIS SHAKE THE FOUNDATIONS AND PRINCIPLES OF THE EU?, hosted by Judith GEERLING
In this workshop you will be introduced to an activity designed to help students think about the free movement of people in Europe. It makes use of one of the materials developed for and published on Historiana. You will be asked to consider to what extent the Schengen agreement functions, how much real freedom of movement exists within the EU and how the EU has been dealing with the so-called “migrant crisis”, the large flow of migrants across the Mediterranean. You are also challenged to think about to what extent this has shaken the EU foundations. The activity is designed to enable students to investigate the inquiry question by learning about contemporary debates about these sub-questions.

BUILDING A COMMON LANGUAGE OF EMPATHY - TEACHING ABOUT PAST, PRESENT AND FUTURE, hosted by Weronika KANN
While extended empathy is recognized as a fundamental tool for historical understanding, it is rarely explicitly named among the skills which are to be taught in the history class. How we, as teachers and educators, can work with pupils to involve them in empathetic procedures of historical research? Do the recommendations suggested in the teaching manuals facilitate activation of empathy among students? Together, we will reflect on different ways in which history teachers can benefit from historical empathy by employing it as a teaching tool in the classroom.

CONTROPEDIA: CRITICAL LEARNING THROUGH WIKIPEDIA’S EDIT HISTORY, hosted by David LANIAOD
Wikipedia articles are not static pieces of knowledge, but can be edited (almost) anytime by anyone. The quality of Wikipedia is made possible by the struggle over its content. Such conflict behind the articles tends to reflect societal debates on the corresponding topics, but is not immediately visible to the public. Contropedia is an automated tool aimed at making the log of changes easily accessible through a visual interface that allows users to identify the elements that aroused more dispute and activity, and to explore the development of a topic within an article. This workshop will inspect the main controversies in selected articles, and comparing different language editions. Finally, we will discuss possible ways of using Wikipedia and Contropedia in the classroom.

ACTIONS PROPOSÉES PAR L’ONACVG AU PUBLIC SCOLAIRE : ZOOM SUR LE JEU DE L’OIE SUR LA CITOYENNETÉ ET LE CONCOURS BD BULLES DE MÉMOIRE, hosted by Laetitia VION and Pascal COGET
Dans le cadre de sa mission « Mémoire », l’Office national des anciens combattants et victimes de guerre (ONACVG) participe activement à la transmission de la mémoire des conflits contemporains et à l’éducation citoyenne des jeunes générations. A cette fin, l’ONACVG imagine et met en œuvre des opérations pédagogiques et culturelles empruntant tous les vecteurs possibles: expositions thématiques, concours scolaires, théâtre, témoignages, sport, colloques, visite des lieux de mémoire, édition de dépliants, etc. Cet atelier sera l’occasion de présenter aux congressistes les différents supports et actions pédagogiques proposés par l’ONACVG au public scolaire et de découvrir plus précisément deux d’entre eux: l’exposition et le jeu de l’Oie sur le thème La Citoyenneté, ainsi que le concours BD « Bulles de Mémoire, les grands conflits du 20ème siècle racontés en bandes dessinées » proposé chaque année aux collégiens et lycéens et jeunes de niveau équivalent.

DOCUMENTARIES' PLACE IN HISTORICAL NARRATIVES, hosted by Karim HOUDAID
The workshop will be based on a series of 7 documentaries Mr. Houaid is developing, dedicated to the "Heirs of the Great War". It will touch the role of docu-testimonies, which consist in the collection of personal perspectives about the Great War. In this way, History is approached through the perspective of subjective narratives, giving a human face to Great Historical Moments, without excluding the word of the experts.

INCLUSION AND HISTORICAL LEARNING - DIAGNOSTICS AS A CHANCE, hosted by Heike BORMUTH
This workshop will show how the inclusive society relates to historical culture as well as historical learning and which demands it places on both. It assumes historical tasks and a positive task culture to be the starting point for the implementation of those demands. The workshop will introduce a diagnostic tool, which is currently being developed at the University of Hamburg: It proposes a set of subject-specific didactic criteria as well as general pedagogical and special needs education criteria that are parallely applied, to determine the skills within a whole set of learners and the specific challenges and levels of demand a historical task holds.

TOURING OPERATING TRoupes in the Mediterranean in the Late 19th Century, hosted by Katerina BRENTANOU
This presentation concerns the touring operatic troupes in the Mediterranean in the late 19th century. In this period the Western culture, characterized by the Industrial Revolution and the industrialization of societies, is the dominant culture and moves rapidly towards the East. The road it follows is the Mediterranean Sea, the one that has been set through the centuries as the main route of cultural and commercial exchange. Among the cultural goods, that travelled through the Mediterranean, is Melodrama (term derived from the combination of Greek words “melos” (= music) and “drama” (=theater) or Opera, as it is usually called in international terminology.

THE POWER OF THE REAL: LEARNING ABOUT MIGRATION AT THE HOUSE OF EUROPEAN HISTORY, hosted by Blandine SMILANSKY and Laurence BRAGARD
The power of observing and handling ‘the real’ is one of the most unique experiences that a museum learning department can offer. To address the issue of migration with young people from across Europe, the House of European history uses objects and documents that tell stories of past lives lived, acting thus as gateways to the past. During the workshop, some of these objects and documents are presented, raising questions on their empathetic power and capacity to tell a story. The workshop will be an opportunity to reflect on and discuss the role of original objects and documents to develop authentic historical understanding among young people.

LA guerre d’Algérie dans les collections de la contemporaine : diversifier les approches, hosted by Frederique BARON.
Pôle de référence national et international pour l’histoire contemporaine et les relations internationales des XXème et XXIème siècles, La contemporain conserve de nombreuses sources relatives à la guerre d’indépendance algérienne et sur de multiples supports : imprimés (presse, publications à faible tirage, tracts, brochures etc.), archives privées, sources militantes, photographies, affiches ou encore archives orales. Cette diversité des sources permet d’envisager plusieurs approches possibles : croisement sources écrites/archives orales ou iconographiques approche militante du conflit, droits de l’homme et justice (fonds de la CIMADE, de la LDH, archives d’avocats militants). L’atelier permettra d’aborder quelques exemples d’exploitation possibles de ces sources pour aborder la période de la guerre d’Algérie.

CHALLENGING THE PEACE TREATY FOR A MORE SUSTAINABLE FUTURE: TEACHERS AS AGENTS OF CHANGE, hosted by Nayla HAMADEH and Jihane YOUSSEF
The ‘civil war’ in Lebanon officially ended in 1990 with a peace agreement that mandated unifying history textbooks as a means to bring the nation together. Almost three decades later, these textbooks are still non-existing while grassroots initiatives are taking the lead. The aim of the Lebanese Association for History (LAH) is to develop historical thinking so that students learn to consider many narratives, respect the right of others to remember stories from the past, and build on the past to address current challenges. The workshop offers an opportunity to exchange innovative tools and methods that have proven successful in the Lebanese context, and that could easily be used cross border to build towards a more sustainable future.

WOMEN ACROSS THE MEDITERRANEAN: FROM THE FRENCH LITERARY SALON TO THE FIRST WOMEN’S MOVEMENT IN EGYPT, hosted by Joan BRODSKY

History reminds us that dialogue and cultural exchange across the Mediterranean has had a long history, but the role of women is rarely factored into our understanding of this exchange. This workshop follows the trajectory of Arab women into the public sphere where they advocated for a variety of rights at the turn of the last century. The movement coincided with efforts at this time to throw off Egypt’s colonial status. We will explore a variety of activities using documents, and also apply Visual Thinking Strategies to relevant artworks and photographs. All of these approaches bring together a more accurate picture of women’s advocacy across the Mediterranean.

POLITICAL PRESSURE ON THE CURRICULUM - A CASE STUDY ABOUT A NATIONAL ANTHEM, hosted by Anne TABAK

What can we teachers do when politicians not only impose quality standards on education, but also want to intervene in the actual content of history education? In The Netherlands is a recent call for re-introducing to sing the national anthem in class. This will be our case study. Together we will explore our possibilities to make something good out of such tendencies. And we will see how relevant this is for our Mediterranean and European context.

TREATING CONTROVERSIAL SUBJECTS AS CONTROVERSIAL – INDOCTRINATION, HISTORIC “FACTS”, MULTIPERSPECTIVITY AND POST-MODERN “ANYTHING GOES“, hosted by Ulrich SCHNAKENBERG

“How to discuss sensible issues in the classroom? Instead of overwhelming the students, we want them to learn the facts, to analyse different perspectives, to enable them to agree with/reject certain opinions by giving arguments, to judge independently, to critically assess – not learn by heart any “official” interpretation – or even to take over the political view oft he teacher. Through analyzing political cartoons on “Mediterranean” issues that can be used in the history classroom (Islam, refugees, Near East, dictatorship), we will discuss the main propositions of the so-called Beutelsbach Consensus (1. Prohibition against Overwhelming the Pupil; 2. Treating Controversial Subjects as Controversial).

THE KOREAN CASE OF TEACHING HISTORY BEYOND BORDERS, hosted by Maurizio RIOTTO, Yo-shik KANG, Dae-gwang BANG, and Oh-cheong KWON

Three history teachers from Korea, mediated by Maurizio Riotto, Italian professor of Korean Language and Literature at University of Naples (IT) will perform a workshop including an active demonstration of learning, revolving around the theme of sharing Korean national policy and school education on the subject of East Asian history, aiming at insightfully overcome discord and conflicts arising from differing perceptions of history. The aim of the workshop is to build an infrastructure in European region that can support the peace and prosperity through promoting a common understanding of the history of the Northeast Asian region, to promote the shared acceptance of a correct historical record, and to address the issues caused by incorrect views of history.

LA TRAVERSEE (2006), OU QUAND LE CINEMA DONNE A VOIR "LES TROIS ÂGES DE L’EMIGRATION ALGERIENNE EN FRANCE", hosted by Frederic ABECASSIS and Jean-Marie GENARD

Screening of a documentary with English subtitles. After the screening, a discussion will be held in both English and French. Le film documentaire d’Elisabeth Leuvrey (60 minutes, 2010), entièrement tourné sur le bateau assurant la traversée de Marseille à Alger, est aussi une subtile adaptation de l'article classique du sociologue Abdelmalek Sayad. Au fil des entretiens avec les passagers se dessinent les lignes de frontière entre deux mondes et leurs effets. L’atelier permettra l’étude conjointe d’un film et d’un article de référence qui a posé un modèle d’évolution de l’émigration algérienne en France. Il ouvrira la réflexion sur l’enjeu de la comparaison entre les migrations coloniales et post coloniales et les migrations actuelles.

Karim Houfaïd - A man of theater and encounters, Karim Houfaïd has a curious and benevolent look on the beings around him. And it is this generous look that he puts at the service of documentary cinema. He is currently working on a series of 7 films dedicated to the heirs of the Great War: a series entitled "The New messengers of Memory." Karim Houfaïd assumes the singularity of his point of view: a man's view of theater, sensitive to people, their life course, and their sensitivity. This personal journey, Karim Houfaïd puts it in the service of a documentary of a new kind: while the fashion is with the docufiction, it defends the form of the docu-testimony, which consists in collecting the word of others in what it is fragile and moving, a vibrant word that illuminates in its own way the Great History. With this sensitive and poetic approach, Karim Houfaïd proposes to approach History from the perspective of subjective narratives, giving a human face to the many fragments of the Great History without excluding the word of experts.

dans le Caucase, ainsi que dans les sièges de ces ONG en France, aux Pays-Bas et aux Etats-Unis. Elle a egalement dirigé des équipes médico-sociales et accompagné les acteurs de la lutte contre l’exclusion en France - associations, collectivités territoriales et fondations. Co-fondatrice de l’association SOS MEDITERRANEE en mai 2015 avec le capitaine de marine allemand Klaus Vogel, elle est directrice générale de l’association en France et vice-présidente du réseau européen qui compte aujourd’hui quatre associations (Allemagne, France, Italie, Suisse).

Steven Stegers - Programme Director at EUROCLIO, where he has worked since 2006. In his time at EUROCLIO, he has focused predominantly on projects in which educational resources are being developed as part of a collaborative process. He has worked for several years as coordinator of projects seeking to innovate history, citizenship and cultural education in the Black Sea region, and North Africa and the Middle East. Steven led the development of Historiana – one of EUROCLIO’s flagship projects, and its first development of online educational resources. He is experienced in managing projects, public speaking, fundraising and advocacy, and has been involved as an expert for several intergovernmental organisations and the International Baccalaureate. He has an MSc degree in Social and Organisational Psychology from Leiden University, and studied history including a honours class on Environment and Global History.

Sylvie Guillaume - Femme politique, citoyenne engagée, européenne convaincue, militante des valeurs progressistes et humanistes: ce sont quelques-unes des façons de résumer mon parcours et mes combats politiques. Depuis la fin des années 80, je suis impliquée dans la vie politique au sein du Parti socialiste, que j’ai dirigé dans le département du Rhône entre 1993 et 2003. Dans le même temps, j’ai été successivement secrétaire nationale aux questions de société, aux droits des femmes puis au développement du parti. Au Parlement européen depuis 2009, je me suis engagée particulièrement dans la commission parlementaire LIBE, qui traite des questions de Libertés civiles, de Justice et d’Affaires Intérieures. Mes sujets d’expertise sont donc l’immigration, les droits de l’Homme, la protection des données personnelles. En 2014, je suis devenue Vice-Présidente du Parlement, en charge notamment des questions d’informationcommunication et du Registre de transparence.
Concernant le droit d’asile, j’ai été désignée fin 2015 rapporteure de la proposition de la commission visant à établir une liste commune de l’Union européenne de pays d’origine sûrs.

Tatiana Minkina-Milko is currently Head of the History Education Unit in the Council of Europe. In her work she is responsible for the development of intergovernmental projects which bring together 50 countries Party to the European Cultural Convention. She is also actively involved in the development of bilateral and regional co-operation programmes particularly in Cyprus. The programmes conducted by Ms. Minkina-Milko are focused on the following areas: the preparation of curricula for schools and higher education establishments, on the development of new teaching tools and interactive approaches aimed at teaching history on a basis of multi-perspectivity with a view of strengthening diverse inclusive societies. By her education Tatiana Minkina-Milko is a historian (PhD in history). She was a professor at the historical faculty of the Moscow State University. Her scientific profile was linked to the research of intercultural relations. She is also the author of a number of publications on intercultural communication and teaching history in conflict and post-conflict areas.

Theo Cohen - French teacher of History and Geography in an High School located in the the metropolitan area of Lyon, France. Half of my time is dedicated to European sections where I am teaching my subjects in English to students aged between 15 to 18 years old. Graduated of two Master Degrees, one in Policy and Strategy of International Public Actions from the University of Lyon III and one and in Geopolitics from the French Institute of Geopolitics (Paris VIII), I did part of my studies in the Hebrew University of Jerusalem, in Israel. Today, being a teacher in History and Geography, I am particularly challenged by the representations, the passions and sensitivity when it comes to the teaching of the Israeli-Palestinian conflict to High-School students. Therefore, my goal is to develop a French version of the «Parallel Histories» project, a wonderful web-based pedagogical tool created by Michael Davies, an English History teacher from Lancaster, UK.

Till Meyer - studied German litterature, philosophie, and history. He worked as teacher and journalist, since 1990 Director German French center Maison de Rhénanie-Palatinat in Dijon. The Fédération des Maisons franco-allemandes is a network of german-french centers in France, emerging from communal or regional common initiatives or from common initiatives from universities in France and Germany. The federation is complementary to the Goethe Instituts in France and started projects like mobiklasse.de, German French volunteer services, and the German French history competition for pupils Eustory.fr.

Ulrich Bongertmann - a German high school teacher and the acting chairman of the Association of German History Teachers (VDG). Bongertmann studied history, Latin and philosophy in Münster. After that he became a teacher in Osnabrück and Hildesheim. In 1993, he went to the Rostock Study Seminar as Head of History and Latin and taught at the Rostock City School. At the same time, he has also been a subject specialist for the subject of history and Latin of the Ministry of Education in Mecklenburg-Vorpommern with responsibility for the framework plans and teacher training. Since 2012 he is the federal chairman of the Association of German History Teachers. Bongertmann published teaching practical and history didactic contributions mainly to the German postwar history.

Ulrich Schnakenberg - Dr. Schnakenberg has worked as a research assistant at the department of modern history at the University of Kassel, Germany. Since 2006, he has been a teacher of history, civic studies and English at a German Gymnasium (secondary school). Since 2014, he is also a teacher trainer in Essen. In addition to that, he is offering courses on the teaching of history, posters, cartoons and CLLL (content and language integrated learning) at the University of Duisburg-Essen. He has published articles, books and teaching aids on topics such as "Islam and the West" and “history in cartoons” and collaborated on history textbooks.

Veronique Sarrere - Directrice Atelier Canopé 13 – Marseille.

Weronika Kann - history education specialist, since 2016 project and communication manager at European Network Remembrance and Solidarity. Before that, project coordinator of many educational and cultural projects in Poland. She worked with non-governmental and public institutions in Poland, such as National Audiovisual Institute and Contemporary Art Foundation In Situ. Graduate of Warsaw University – master’s degree of The Centre for East European Studies. She studied history of Eastern Europe and Russia, contemporary issues, economy, culture, and social, ethnic, religious, ethnological and political issues. Interested in photography and contemporary art – the topic of her master’s thesis was the political performance art of the Russian art group "Voyna".

Yo-shik Kang - was born in March 1960 in Geumsan, in the South Chungcheong Province, and went onto studying History Education at Seoul National University in Seoul for my undergraduate and graduate courses. I started my career in 1984, firstly as a teacher in different high schools such as Kyunggi High School and Seoul Science High School, then as a supervisor and senior supervisor at the Seoul Metropolitan Office of Education, deputy principal of Banpo High School, before finally changing to my current position as principal of Yeouido High School. I have participated in the production of high school history textbooks and various history education materials. My current fields of interest are History Education and School Management.
